"Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

— Proverbs 3:17

At a crossroads . . .

Graduation . . .

Peace graduates gather around the fountain to throw in a single rose — a symbol of the finalization of their days at Peace.

Soon to be graduates of Peace College anxiously wait for the beginning of the ceremony.

Daniella Marx and Lee Worrell seem to be excited and a little nervous about graduating and moving on to another school.

Dr. Spangler and Dr. Kanoy, proud to see another class succeed and graduate, watch as students receive Associate of Arts degrees.

Kristen Haddock, president of PSGA, makes the graduation speech advising her fellow classmates to put their friends in a "box" and move on to meet new friends.

A Part of Peace forever

The tradition of a commencement ceremony at Peace College is one long followed. All colleges and universities have graduation, but at Peace the ceremony has a touch of class and history that adds a special dimension. Each student wears a formal white gown and carries thirteen red roses; although uniform in dress, each class is diverse but brought together to signify an accomplished goal.

Each graduate has certain people present at the ceremony who represent parts of her life thus far. Family and friends make her realize her roots and the reason for her strength. Administrators represent those she has followed and trusted for guidance while professors symbolize her achievements and role models.

Graduation is a rite of passage that each student undergoes in her journey through life. As she throws her rose into the fountain, she leaves a part of herself with Peace forever.

Peace — At A Crossroads

Peace College to begin offering baccalaureate degree programs

FOR RELEASE ON 10/21/93. RALEIGH, N.C. -- Peace College, a liberal arts and sciences college for women, announced today that it plans to begin offering four-year baccalaureate degree programs in Biology, Business Management, Communications, Human Resources and Liberal Studies, effective fall 1995.

The official announcement was made at the annual fall meeting of the Peace College Board of Trustees. A celebration was then held on campus for Trustees, faculty, staff and students.

Peace College, which was founded in 1857, historically has offered two-year associate degree programs to an annual enrollment of approximately 500 women. In 1990, the College embarked upon a three-year study of its options for the future. This culminated, in 1992, in the Board of Trustees's unanimous approval to begin offering four-year baccalaureate degrees.

The five proposed baccalaureate majors were recently presented to the Board of Trustees. The College will continue to follow the guidelines for final approval that are set by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS), with the first junior class to be enrolled in fall, 1995. The College will also maintain its Associate of Arts, Associate of Science, Associate of Fine Arts in Music, and Associate of Science in Business degrees.

"Studies we conducted and surveys we made of our current students, alumnae, prospective students and others convinced us several years ago that the time was right for Peace to add four-year degree programs," said Dr. Garrett Briggs, President of Peace since 1988. "This new direction allows us to retain the strengths we want to preserve, while we answer the educational and career needs of young women."

He added, "All of the majors were chosen because our students have consistently expressed interest in these areas of study, or have gone on to pursue degrees and careers in these areas after leaving Peace. What we have kept in mind with all of our planning is that we want to attract outstanding young women who flourish best in a college where personal attention is important."

Adjusting To College Life

Before even starting college, some Peace students got adjusted to college life through attending the Writing Institute. Two weeks of vigorous writing, reading and meeting new friends gave about 150 freshman young women a headstart in their college career. August 23rd was the day old friends reunited as well as many new faces appeared. When the 1993-94 school year officially began, boxes cluttered the hallways, and everyone began settling into their new home.

New Beginnings

The Freshman

Convocation is a special time remembered by all freshmen at Peace. It is an academic assembly held for the young women of the freshmen class each year. Each young woman files into the Recital Hall wearing the traditional white dress. To the right Leigh Ann Midget, Stacy Knight, Marti Mills, Karen Philbeck, Jennifer Daniels, Kristy Salem, Donna Barnes, Priscilla Watson, await the moment to file into the Convocation Ceremony with the rest of the Freshmen class. During the ceremony, the faculty welcomes the freshmen to Peace and challenges them to perform their best during the coming year. At the 1993 Convocation students learned about the importance of this time in their lives. Students leave filled with anticipation and confidence to make their years at Peace successful.

Brooke Rudd, Stephanie Stewart, Jennifer McCurly, and Felicia Fagnoli are leading the young women of Peace down the path into the Convocation Ceremony.

Heather Wallace, Lindsay Harris, Carrie Wolfe, Kristen Wheless, Susan Turner, Caroline Keir, Leslie Covington, Carey Provost, and Carne Mayer are all smiles and glad the waiting is finally over. They can now look back on all the memories Convocation held for them.

After standing in line for quite a while, Priscilla Watson, Donna Barnes, and Brooke Rudd are finally receiving their programs and entering the Convocation Ceremony. Convocation is a memory that will last forever with a Peace student.

Freshmen come to college every year not knowing what to expect. Here at Peace, our freshmen found themselves being kept busy with Convocation, Honor Week, classes, and worrying about passing their first test, the handbook test.

Along with the hard work of the first few weeks of school, Peace students enjoyed meeting new friends through mixers with several North Carolina State dorms and fraternities. Although the beginning of school can be stressful, Peace provided many activities to help the freshmen adjust.

Making new friends already, Ashley Meisner introduces herself to some guys from Brigaw dorm at N.C. State. This mixer was held at Peace. There was a live D.J., and it was a good opportunity for the freshmen to meet new people.

Enjoying her slice of pizza, Melissa Allen watches the Durham Bulls game with a group of her new-found friends. The Durham Bulls game was an event that many freshmen enjoyed.

Anxiously awaiting to say the honor pledge, Melissa Lancaster and Allison Kingery stop to pose for a picture. The honor pledge was recited by all freshmen at a solemn ceremony in the chapel.

"It was hard adjusting to Peace for the first few weeks, but now I feel that I have made friends that will last a lifetime."

— Meghan Mcleery

At a Crossroad

In-depth essays, complicated readings, heated discussions and extensive lectures are all elements that make up the most demanding courses offered at Peace.

Academics at Peace is very demanding but not impossible. The school offers many study aids such as the Computer Center and the Writing Center. The Counseling Center also offers many study seminars in order to help students understand textbook reading, taking notes, and handling stress. The Computer Center offers students a chance to get familiar with computers and enables students access to computers for several hours a day. The Writing Center gives students the opportunity to receive help on papers. The staff helps students with grammatical errors and other problems in writing.

Another service offered by Peace faculty is their time and their willingness to help. Professors at Peace give their time and their knowledge to students and a personal relationship develops between the students and the faculty.

Peace is a very unique place and many people and the educational aids offered at Peace make it an even more special place.

Dori Hall looks carefully at some microscopic organisms in her Anatomy lab. Anatomy is one of the many science courses offered at Peace.

Megan McCleary reads over her English paper in the Computer Center, which is open to all Peace students.

Dr. Briggs, President of Peace College, and Sophomore Maria Morgan take time out of their busy schedule.

Dr. Robert Page, Registrar, goes over graduation requirements with Sophomore, Leslie Finch. Dr. Page meets with each sophomore in the fall to review graduation requirements.

A Peace student looks carefully at the substances under her microscope in a Biology lab.

Music

Leading the Chamber Singers, Freshman Ashley Meisner begins the chapel service.

Sophomore, April Robbins studies her artwork to decide which picture to put on display.

Sunshine Romola and Jennifer Price rehearse their lines from The Miracle Worker.

"There is a vitality, a life-force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all of time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium and be lost. The world will not have it.

It is not your business to determine how good it is nor how valuable nor how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep it yours clearly and directly, to keep the channel open . . . whether you choose to take an art class, keep a journal, record your dreams, dance your story or live each day from your own creative source. Above all else, keep the channel open!"

— Martha Graham

Dance

Theatre

We are all familiar with the names of talented artists like singer, Janis Joplin; dancer, Martha Graham; and author, Kaye Gibbons. They expressed themselves in different areas of the fine arts, but they shared a similarity; they were all women. These women were undoubtedly talented and unique in each of their own separate ways, much like the class of 1994. Each woman displayed her own originality in different ways. That is what makes Peace so special.

Last fall, the Drama department produced The Miracle Worker, a success. The Peace Pacers and the Peace Chorus performed at the Christmas concert and again in the Spring. Talented art students sculpted and painted masterpieces that were displayed for our enjoyment. Peace College is a small college to say the least, but this year proved that there is always room for creativity.

Peace Pacer, Christy Shearin practices her routine for the Spring Concert.

At the Scholarship Donors Dinner, the Peace Chamber Singers entertained the students and guests.

Although many colleges and universities do not always participate in religious activities, Peace College is an exception. Numerous activities involve Peace students and develop their spirituality. These opportunities include Chapel, a required religion course, and The Peace Christian Association. Bible studies and participation in community volunteer services such as Loaves and Fishes give Peace students an opportunity to express their spiritual needs.

Maria Morgan, Constance Gibbs, Chelly McClamroch, Leslie Finch, Vashti Easter, and Amy Eatmon are ready to begin morning Chapel.

Dr. Thomas can always be found talking with students, such as here with Imna Munoz, outside of Pressly.

The Sophomore Experience

As a sophomore, students are more adapted to college life. The sophomore experience involves applying to colleges for transfer, leaving friends behind, and adjusting to a new college. This year's sophomore class is very unique. It is the last true sophomore class. Next year, the sophomore class will have the option of staying at Peace for four years. Peace will offer a four year program for interested students. Sophomores can often be found talking to the transfer coordinator seeking guidance about transfer colleges or in the Counseling Center learning more about her major. The sophomore class is very involved in clubs and in leadership positions. Leslie Gibbs is the sophomore class president,

Patrice McPhaul is vice-president. Getting involved is a big part of Peace College. Being a sophomore means being secure in your friendships. The sophomores have already been through a year of college life together and have adjusted well in their work and provide direction to the freshman class. Shown on these pages are parting shots of

Foreign Study . . . Class of '94

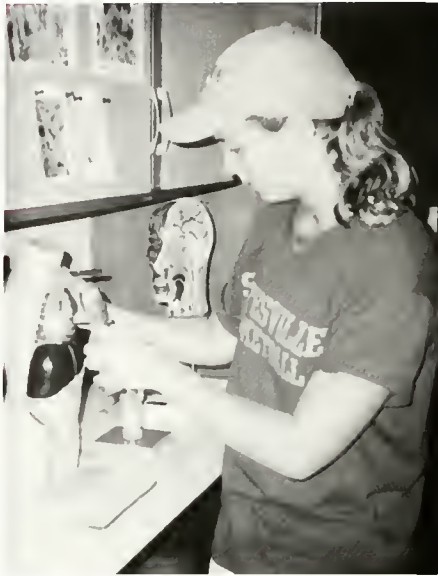

Peace students are given the opportunity every summer to travel to Mexico or England and study abroad. Students receive academic credit if they participate in this program. These trips are great learning experiences and are awaited anxiously by Peace students every year. These Peace students below stop in front of Ely Cathedral to pose for a picture. Robin Hollamon and Tracy Dail enjoy each other's company in the University Church located in the heart of Cambridge University.

Peace Student Recreation Association

The PSRA coordinates the intramural sports program of the College. Individual and team competition is held for numerous sports as well as annual competition between the classes. The PSRA cabinet organizes and governs the activities under its advisors. A yearly calendar is also produced for their activities.

A Faculty/Staff vs. Peace students softball game was held. Activities such as these offer fun interaction between student and professor.

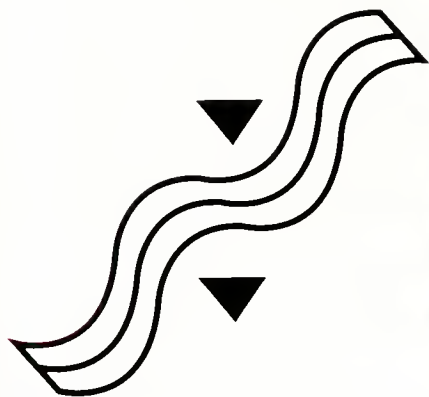

Daughters and Granddaughters

Mothers and grandmothers can be some of the biggest role models of a young woman's life. This group of girls share a special bond with their mothers and grandmothers by attending Peace just as the generations before. Some of the girls even have great-grandmothers who have attended Peace.

Among the club's yearly activities the members have the honor of decorating the Christmas tree in Main Parlor. They also hold fundraisers for scholarship funds throughout the year. Daughters and Granddaughters is one of the many clubs rich in the traditions of Peace.

President's Aides is a group of girls that help represent Peace College. They attend college functions throughout the year and assist the Admissions office. Welcoming prospective students and their parents and showing them around campus is only part of their jobs. They also take part in junior and senior visitation days. These girls provide a student's view of college life.

During the year the group attends receptions for the Board of Trustees and the Board of Visitors. They also have the honor of being present at the Briggs' for the Christmas Open House.

Young Democrats

The College Republicans and Young Democrats give Peace College students the opportunity to voice their concerns over what happens in our world. The women who have joined these clubs participate in local campaigns and attend debates in Raleigh regularly. Although 1993 was not an election year, these students still stayed involved in the important decision-making that happens here in the Capitol City. These two organizations allow students to get involved in many political campaigns throughout the year and expand their knowledge and understanding of the Republican and Democratic parties.

During the academic year, Ashley Tennet and Heidi Plemmons attended the Rufus Edmiston Young Democratic Conference.

PRISM-Peace's Literary Magazine

Peace College offers many opportunities for students to express their creative abilities. The PRISM, the Peace College literary magazine, is published yearly and is the forum for short stories, poetry, photography, and artwork. Students learn to publish with the aid of Desktop Publishing and produce a completely student-operated and printed magazine. Entries are submitted to the editors, and a panel of judges selects the top contributions of both poetry and prose. Combined with artwork and photography, the chosen selections reveal the creative efforts of many Peace students.

The Peace Times, the student newspaper, is another way students may express their creative energies. Students establish editorial policy, coordinate photography, layout, and write and edit their own articles for publication.

Recipe

We are lifted from the darkness and placed on clouds to whisper thoughts of daydreams and feelings that evolve from the nothing that usually fills the minds of the people who wander down streets waiting for happiness to shower down on them like a waterfall of money which is probably the happiness they dream of when they don't realize that it takes more than money to make happiness;
it is a long recipe.

So ever long ago

I stare into deep eyes, that made me mad,
So ever long ago.

Remnants of a bittersweet love story that changed my course of history forever.
Our past,
is a dangerous field to cross.
Minds so strong,
maybe too good to last.

Ah, the mistakes of foolish youth,
Causing the making or breaking of tender souls.
Reality treading upon the climax blooming of fresh-faced innocence, staring it face down, and taking it beyond previously denied paths.
Just to push it into grown-up existence,
because of society's inert expectations.
With the awakened body and mind,
a new understanding of what was explained comes forth.
Wanting the knowledge to carry thyself back to the time, when one can look back and yearn for that innocence, that was given up,
so ever long ago.

HONOR COURT

The Honor Court at Peace College represents and upholds the Honor Code. Academic and social integrity is a value held high by faculty, staff, and students. Each year freshmen, dressed in white, go before the Honor Court, recite the pledge, and sign their names in the book. This code reminds each young woman of her responsibility to conduct herself morally and to be trustworthy.

Helen Kerr, Robin, Hollamon, Amy Hull, and Lynette Payton make up the Honor Court.

Special Events

Parents Weekend is an annual event at Peace College. This is a time when moms and dads have the opportunity to come to Peace and explore the campus, meet the faculty, and spend some time with their daughters. There are planned activities for parents throughout the weekend. This year and also in the past, Peace has held a barbeque. The barbeque has been on Peace Beach where parents and their daughters participated in fun and games. Parents Weekend is also a great opportunity for the parents to meet their daughters' new-found friends and their parents. Parents Weekend is also a time for bonding and making memories. The only problem is that the students have to clean those dorm rooms before their moms and dads arrive.

MOTHER/FATHER DAUGHTER WEEKENDS

Christy Burke dances with her father to "Daddy's Little Girl."

Mother/Father Daughter Weekends are two weekends set aside during the school year for parents to come visit their daughters on an individual basis. For dads this weekend means a dinner and dance. For moms, there is a trip to the Governor's Mansion, and, as always, shopping! This year, the dads also had the opportunity to check out their bowling skills.

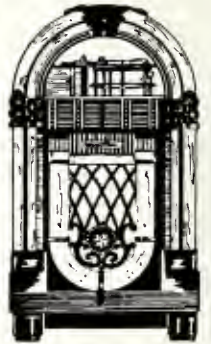

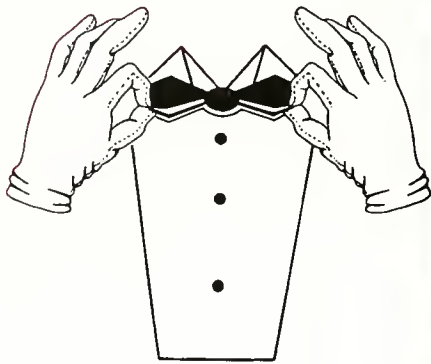

Phelicia Cuthbertson and her "Peace College Mom" wait outside the Governor's Mansion for their tour.

PEACE PRIDE

With a new coach, a lot of hard work, and a winning attitude, the Peace College tennis team had a great season. Coach Deb Houser was an enthusiastic addition to the tennis program. On October 22-23 Peace College sponsored a tournament in honor of past tennis coach, Ruth Hopkins. The competition was highly competitive, and it motivated the players to play hard and pull together as a team.

The ultimate goal for the tennis team this year was to rise to the top and travel to Tyler, Texas to play in the national tournament held there.

'93-'94 Team Members: Coach Deb Houser, Kristy Clark, Jessica Kuhn, Rennie Rice, Leigh Clark, Jennifer Craven, Dori Hall, Courtney McMillian, Holly Shuford, Mary Marker

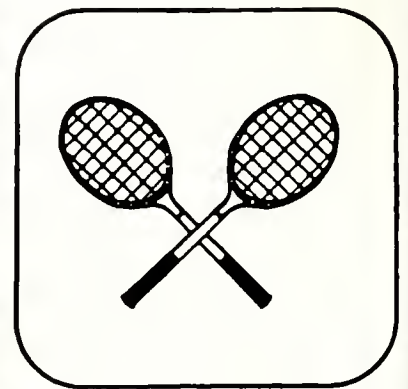

During a team practice, freshman Leigh Clark retrieves a ball.

With her eye on the ball, number 3 player, Jessica Kuhn finishes up her shot.

Number one player, Rennie Rice, swings through her backhand.

TENNIS

To begin her match, freshman Christy Clarke hands her opponent the balls.

Supporting her team sophomore Mary Marker sits and watches.

During warm up sophomore Holly Shuford practices her serve.

Ready to play doubles team Jessica Kuhn and Jennifer Craven wait for an open court.

“ QUOTABLE QUOTE ”

“Playing on the tennis team has given me a chance to meet more people and make close friends.”

— Leigh Clark

SOCCKER

How many ladies at Peace are willing to give up their much needed sleep on Saturday mornings to go play soccer? A group of dedicated students did just this for eight long weeks both semesters.

Under the direction of Coach Gary Edgerton, the team would meet every Tuesday and Thursday at Giant's field for practice. During these practices, team members would work on running, scrimmaging for endurance and drills to prepare them for their weekend matches.

Peace's club soccer was a member of the Capital Area Soccer League and played against local women's teams and schools. Although it was just a club sport, team members hope that the soccer team will grow and soon join the NCAA to play more area schools and Universities.

Coach Gary Edgerton

Club Volleyball

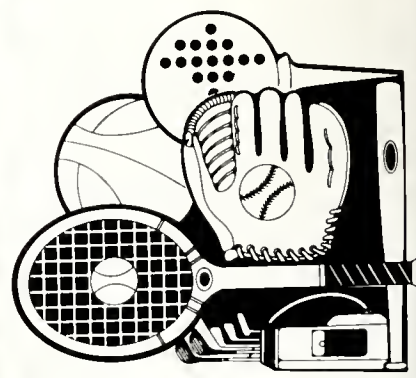

It takes a lot of practice, determination, and time to be a volleyball player at Peace College. Learning the moves, practicing, and working hard were just some of the things that these women did to improve their game.

Although playing well was important, the main goal of the volleyball players was to have fun and make new friends with other Peace students. Overall, Club Volleyball turned out to be a fun, exciting experience that will live in the memories of Peace College women forever.

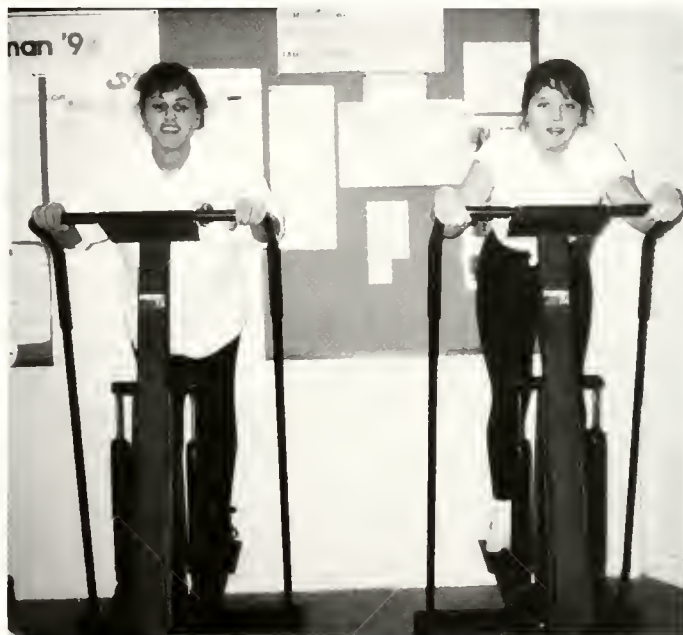

INTRAMURALS

The intramural sports program, which is sponsored by the PSRA, offers students a chance to participate in activities such as volleyball, basketball, swimming, badminton, soccer, and many other outdoor or indoor activities. PSRA organizes many afternoon events for both individual and team competition.

PEACE

At Peace College students try to exercise both their minds and their bodies. Physical Fitness is very important to Peace girls especially as the summer draws near. The most popular exercise routines included the stairmaster, the stationary bikes, the weights, and walking or jogging around the gym. For whatever reason it was, Peace Students enjoyed Physical Fitness.

Peace Pacers

Peace Pacers Jazz Dance Company is made up of students who explore dance in all forms. From ballet, modern, tap, and jazz, these talented dancers devote much of their time to choreographing and rehearsing. Each dancer brings her own style and level of experience to the company to provide a variety of creative expression. In addition to dancing, students choreograph, choose music and costumes, and teach other dancers.

Throughout the year Pacers host guest dancers and companies who provide instruction on technique and classes that influence personal expression. This year, dance company "Two Near The Edge" and dancers from the N.C. School of the Arts held classes with the Pacers.

Pacers also perform at various events including the Christmas Concert and their own Spring Concert. This year's concert, "In Transit," is a showcase of the year's work.

Chamber Singers

The Chamber Singers are a select group of students chosen by audition. Led by Mr. Jim Smith, this group performs for several special occasions including area churches and school functions. Two important performances are their Christmas and spring concerts where they sing sacred and secular works.

Choir

The Peace College Choir is composed of students who not only sing for Peace College chapel services but also for area churches during their morning services. Because the choir is open to all students, many find a welcome opportunity to pursue their musical interests at the college level. The Peace College Choir also holds two major concerts — the Christmas Concert and a joint concert in the spring with the N.C. State Varsity Glee Club.

Virginia Vance accompanies the choir and Chamber Singers on the organ.

The Skin of Our Teeth, a play written by Thornton Wilder, was performed at Peace in early April of 1993.

Christine Ashley did an outstanding job performing as the main character in the play. The play was a smashing hit in the 40's, and it received outstanding reviews when it was performed at Peace College.

MIRACLE WORKER PER

Peace College presented "The Miracle Worker" by William Gibson, November 17-20, 1993. This was a very touching play portraying the life of Helen Keller. The setting of the play took place in the 1800's around the Keller homestead in Tuscumbia, Alabama. Mr. Richard Rottschaefer directed and designed this play and led the Peace college drama department to an outstanding performance.

Visual Arts

Although Pease is not a school that focuses entirely on the visual arts, they are a major part of the curriculum, and there is a relatively large art department where one could work with an array of art media. From painting, sculpting, drawing, all the way to photography, many students at Pease take advantage of the opportunity to widen their horizons and explore the wonderful world of art.

"It is the glory and good of art, that art remains the one way possible of speaking the truth, to mouths like mine at least."

Honors

Leadership Scholars are: Heidi Plemmons, Leslie Eden, Emily Cunningham, Leslie Gibbs, Lynn May, Meg Sutton, Myra Mallison, Dana Minchew, Caroline Owen, Kathy Rissmiller, and Suzanne Winslow.

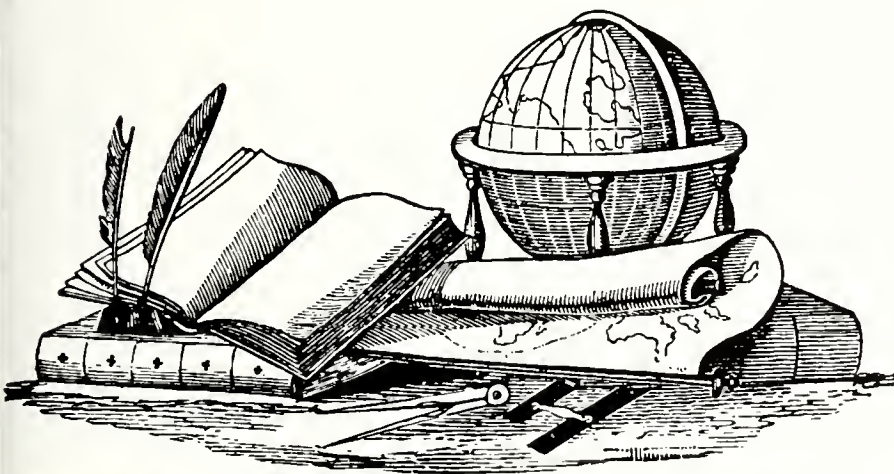

Leadership Scholars

The Leadership Scholars are a select group chosen by an interview process that evaluates leadership experience during the high school career. Sponsored by Dr. Janice Edwards, students are then encouraged to participate and volunteer for Peace College activities. An important requirement for this scholarship is the "Women in Leadership" class. This class teaches important information concerning a woman's role in today's society. These students are also taught leadership skills and knowledge that will help them in the business world. These Scholars were also responsible for promoting the month of March, which was Women Awareness Month. They made a time line highlighting important steps in the women's movement and held a dinner for women faculty and students.

College Scholars

The College Scholars are chosen from the students who are the recipients of the top academic scholarships at Peace College. These students are eligible for enrollment in the Honors programs, are recognized at the Academic Convocation and traditional Awards Ceremony, and also participate in the Goodmon's Visiting Scholars program. The College Scholars begin their year by having a dinner at Dr. Briggs' house. This group of scholars is sponsored by Mr. John Crossno and are given priority tickets and information for area cultural events. They were given tickets for the International Festival in the fall. These top students are given special privileges to fulfill their academic needs.

Marshals

Marshals at Peace College are the top five students who have the highest over-all GPA after completing their first semester at Peace as a freshman. The marshals serve at commencement, baccalaureate, and convocation services. Marshal Phelicia Cuthbertson said, "It is an honor to be a marshal. It made me look forward to graduation because I saw how special it was and why it is such an important tradition at Peace College."

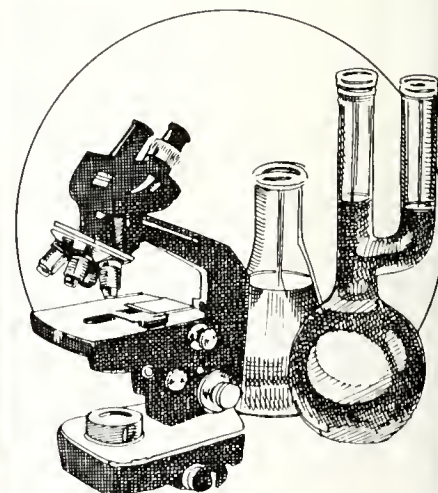

The 1993-94 Peace College Marshals are (l-r): Robin Hollamon, Phelicia Cuthbertson, Amy Ijames, Holly Shuford and Tracy Dail.

Teaching Award

The McCormick Distinguished Teaching Award, named in honor of Rebecca McCormick Disosway, a 1980 Peace graduate, was presented to Dr. Lisa Bonner in 1993. Dr. Bonner was selected by faculty and students for her excellent teaching methods and her concern for her students' intellectual development. Dr. Bonner is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Middle Tennessee State University and received her Ph.D. from Mississippi State University. She has been on the faculty at Peace since 1988 and is an Assistant Professor of Biology. Peace College students and faculty congratulate Dr. Lisa Bonner for her dedication to her profession.

Dr. Lisa A. Bonner, 1993 winner of the McCormick Distinguished Teaching Award.

Phi Theta Kappa

Phi Theta Kappa is a national honor fraternity within junior colleges. In order to be inducted into Phi Theta Kappa, freshmen must obtain a 3.7 GPA their first semester at Peace. Sophomores must obtain a 3.3 cumulative GPA. Inductions into Phi Theta Kappa is in the spring of each year. In order to remain a member of Phi Theta Kappa, that student must maintain a 3.3 cumulative GPA. Phi Theta Kappa sponsors campus tutoring, guest speakers, and holds an annual Spring Dinner.

Sigma Delta Mu

Peace's chapter of Sigma Delta Mu began in 1980. Sigma Delta Mu is a National Honor society for Spanish. Requirements for Sigma Delta Mu are that one maintains a B average in Spanish, have a 3.0 in all classes, and must continue through second semester of Spanish. Member Beth Haneman said, "It was a very good educational opportunity to be able to learn about another culture other than our own."

Sigma Delta Mu members are: Susanne Winslow, Christa Smith, Kristie Eaves, Robin Hollamon, Leigh Ann Carr, Abby Carter, Jennifer Claire, Kelly Dickens, Beth Haneman, Mary Lehman, Amy Wright, Meg Sutton, Leslie Gibbs, Gina Dedmond, Kristina Ringler, Becky Schaefer, and Lynn May.

Michelle Castleberry

"Michelle Castleberry has never met a stranger. She has an ability to talk to anyone and an enthusiasm that is infectious. As President of Student Government, as a student worker in the Admissions office, and as a member of the Chamber Singers, she has demonstrated time and time again her love for Leuce for her classmates." Jan Smith

Phelicia Guthbertson

"Phelicia is a young woman whose faith finds expression in her joyful embrace of life and in her dedication to personal excellence. Her enthusiasm for learning enriches the classroom, and her encouragement of others inspires them to strive for their best."

Dr. Linda Purcell

In

American

Tracy Dial

"Tracy's bright, scientific mind combined with her articulate way with words enable her to excel in all academic areas. Add to these talents, a warm, caring personality, and it's obvious why her years at Leuce as a student, a peer tutor, and a campus leader have been outstanding." Judy Williams.

Leslie Gibbs

"A leader with vision and a plan. Leslie is not afraid to challenge, to stretch, to grow, to risk. We have benefited from her presence and eagerly anticipate her future accomplishments."

Dr. Janice Edwards.

Junior

Colleges

Robin Kollamon

"Robin has distinguished herself as one who fulfills the description of 'servant-leader.' She serves as she leads, leads as she serves, acting not out of superficial obligation, but from unusual depth of character, and brings to each task exceptional insight, conviction, and grace." Dr. Sally Buckner

Leadership

Amy James

"A quiet serious student with an inquisitive mind and a lively personality. She has pursued her career goal of pharmacy but has also enthusiastically explored the world of Fine Arts and literature."

Dr. Emile deLuca

Lynn May

"Lynn May personifies the type of leader I find to be most effective. She is focused, articulate, and enthusiastic about her responsibilities. She is thoughtful and sensitive to the needs of others and consistently brings joy to those who know her. She is the kind of best friend that most people search a lifetime for. Kudos to Lynn May!"

Confidence

Kathy Rissmiller

"Kathy has a very acute sense of the integrity and beauty of worship — a genuine awareness of the holy in the chapel and in all of life. It is to her credit that she is resolved and articulate about this. She will be a wonderful presence in the church and in the community."

George Alexander Thomas

Responsibility

Becky Schaefer

"Becky is an exemplary student, leader, and person. She sets high standards of academic performance and drives herself to meet and exceed her goals. She gives generously of her time in service to her friends, school, and community. Her strong commitment to God and her beliefs serve as an inspiration to others."

Karen Bass

Academic Excellence

Liz Shoaf

"As a biology major Liz Shoaf is energetic and interested in science. Her enthusiasm comes through in the classroom where she always contributes and as my teaching assistant."

Miss

Peace Lynn May

The honor of Miss Peace is bestowed upon a sophomore each year who not only exemplifies the qualities of Peace College, but also shows outstanding service to her community. This year's student body gave the honor to Lynn May. Not only does Lynn excel inside the classroom, but outside as well. She served as president of the PSCA, an Honor Court representative, participated in the Big Friend/Little Friend program, and was nominated to the Who's Who in American Junior Colleges. As a Resident Assistant Lynn spent a lot of her time assisting the freshmen into college life. Lynn May gave a little of herself to everyone and will leave a great gap at Peace after graduation. Her friends Tracy Foushee and Liz Shoaf give a tribute to their friendship:

"Roomdog . . . Foush . . . Lynn time sure does fly. You have given us two of the most unforgettable years of our life. Without those years we wouldn't be who we are today. Your dedication, inspiration, and, most of all, your unconditional friendship has brought us through the good and bad times. It seems like only yesterday that we stopped at the BP for some gum. Now our time has come to say good-bye to all the memories we've shared at Peace. Not only do you represent the student body as Miss Peace, but you have always been and always will be Miss Peace to us. You deserve the best that life has to offer. May God bless you and keep you safe. We love you always!"

doesn't mean you can't be coordinated. . . . But we graduated anyway!*

PEACE IS ADDING ON 4 YOU!

Biology
Business Management
Communications
Human Resources
Liberal Studies

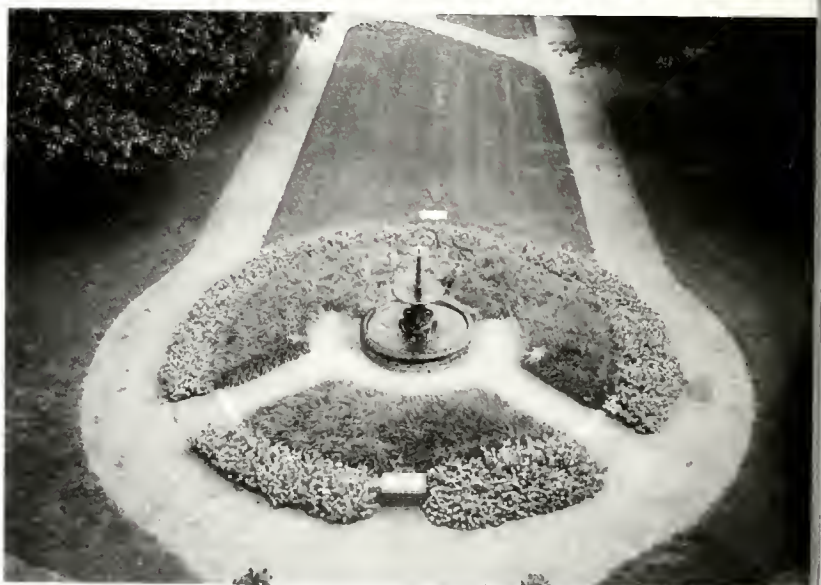

Peace College has come to a crossroads in its history and will be following a new path as it moves into the 21st century. For the first time in history, Peace is adding on. Traditionally, Peace students have received Associate of Arts degrees and transferred to other, often larger institutions for their baccalaureate degrees. Beginning in the fall of 1995, students will have the option of transferring or continuing at Peace for their baccalaureate degree.

This new direction offers students the best of both worlds. Classes will remain small, faculty will still be supportive and accessible, academic standards will continue to be high, and traditions so long cherished will be preserved. Added to these obvious advantages will be areas of study that will focus on internships, research, and practical applications that will prepare Peace women for the working world or graduate school. Leadership opportunities and potential for intellectual development will be unlimited. President Briggs said it best: "This new direction allows us to retain the strengths we want to preserve." The future of Peace is indeed bright!

All pathways at Peace eventually lead to the fountain, the heart of the campus.

Dr. Yarbrough announced five baccalaureate degrees programs planned to be offered in '95.
